NOT YET FOUND

Miss Vera Armstrong in Critical Condition as Result of Brutal Attack.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Aug. 29.—Although the police were furnished with a very complete description of the girl's assailant, no arrests had been made up to a late hour this evening for the brutal assault upon Miss Vera Armstrong, who was attacked on Lincoln avenue while on her way home at 11 o'clock last night. Miss Armstrong declares that it would be an easy matter for her to identify the man who attacked her in front of the Newman home, 244 Lincoln avenue.

Miss Armstrong is positive that the handkerchief which the man attempted to bind across her face was saturated with chloroform. When he first accosted her she succeeded in breaking away, running into the yard at the Newman home. He followed her up to the porch and was attempting to place the handkerchief over her mouth when she called for Mrs. Newman.

"To hell with Mrs. Newman; you're coming with me," is the statement credited to the stranger, but when the woman appeared at the door he ran out of the yard and toward Twenty-fifth street. George Newman, after escorting Miss Armstrong home, went to police headquarters and gave the officers a complete description of the girl's assailant. Miss Armstrong, who is 16 years old, is employed as a clerk at the Twenty-fifth street theater.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Aug. 29.—Thousands of dead ducks, victims of the contaminated water in the Weber river, are being removed from the North Shore club hunting grounds by V. G. Stimpson and several assistants. Mr. Stimpson is unable to estimate the number of birds which have died near the Weber river, but he says that the west of the city, but for the past six days the carcasses have been removed by the boatload, three to five boats being in constant operation. Mr. Stimpson states that probably 75 per cent of the ducks visiting the locality have died during the present season, and he attributes the loss to the sewage from Ogden. Practically all of the ducks died near the north branch of the river, which carries the sewage from Ogden, while the south branch seems to have caused little disease among the wild fowl. Five hundred sick ducks remained their heads in the water, and the ducks away from the contaminated stream and thus reduce the mortality.

Prisoner's Knowledge of Crooks' Dialect Proved to Be His Undoing.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Aug. 29.—William Wyland's knowledge of terms which are used with the greatest familiarity by most of the notorious crooks of the city brought about his undoing when he was arraigned before Judge W. H. Reeder this morning on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. "Where did you get this?" asked the judge, holding up a blackjack to the prisoner. "Found that what?" "That's what?" "The judge was at once curious to know where Wyland had heard the term 'sap' applied. "That's what we call 'em in Pittsburg," replied Wyland. "You don't know a crook unless you're a yegman," said the judge. "I've been in Pittsburg myself, so it will be fifteen days for you."

The prisoner eyed Judge Reeder suspiciously as he left the courtroom.

GLASMAN DENIES REPORTED INTERVIEW

Blames Wesley K. Walton for Calling Off of Ogden Bull Moose Meeting.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Aug. 29.—Declaring that his grievance had to do with Wesley K. Walton, chairman of the Bull Moose state central committee, and not with Governor Hiram Johnson, former Mayor William Glasman has denied a report from Salt Lake that he told the California executive or anybody else to "go to hell" just before calling off the Roosevelt meeting in this city yesterday afternoon.

Glasman told the small crowd which had assembled to hear Governor Johnson that he had been unable to reach the scheduled speaker over the long-distance telephone. Today, when questioned, he reiterated that claim and added the denial that he cursed a little, but did not attempt to disguise a genuine ill-feeling toward Walton.

"Governor Johnson would have spoken in Ogden yesterday if Walton had done the right thing," said Glasman. "Walton attempted to arrange the governor's schedule in Utah and instructed our secretary, Mr. Forrester, to advertise a meeting. They made another engagement for Mr. Johnson between 3 and 5 o'clock. He merely told the governor that he was not coming, and that he was not coming."

Glasman stated that Governor Johnson promised to address a meeting in Ogden upon his return west.

GOVERNMENT LEASES
WYOMING COAL LAND

Special to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The first action taken by the government in the matter of leasing coal lands was consummated today when Acting Secretary Adams of the interior department concluded arrangements to lease to the Owl Creek coal company a tract of coal lands in Wyoming on a royalty basis for thirty years. The authority to lease was granted by a resolution introduced in the recent congress by Senator Warren. Under this legislation the department was authorized to lease to the Owl Creek coal company lands which it had made entries, the validity of which was disputed by the government. Had the legislation not been enacted, the government would have rendered worthless and four or five hundred miners would have lost employment.
